

Children's Theatre show

Leeds Children's Theatre, who are giving "Little Boy Blue" at St. George's Hall, in aid of the Don Robins Fund, hope that when they give their final performance in the Albert Hall on Monday, March 22, 3,000 children in the city will have seen the play.

The theatre, which is a theatre for children, is amalgamated with the Leeds Arts Centre. The cast for "Little Boy Blue" includes teachers from many of the schools in Leeds, others who are not connected with the teaching profession, and girls from the Middleton Secondary Modern School.
