

presents

Unspoken

By Neil Rathmell with Trudy Stewart

A play about a man and his stammer

Directed by Trudy Stewart

Carriageworks Theatre, Millennium Square, Leeds

Wednesday 5th to Friday 7th July 2017 @ 7.45pm

Saturday 8th July 2017 @ 2.45pm and 7.45pm

There will be a post-show discussion after each performance

Image by Maria Hayes

Book Now

Alex has a secret. A secret that makes him frustrated and ashamed. A secret he has tried to hide all his life. Until tonight.

Tonight he has to decide whether to tell his secret, or to choose once again to let it remain unspoken.

Unspoken is a unique dramatic exploration of the experience of stammering.

"Why does Alex talk funny?"

The play might not answer the question, but it will help you to understand what it feels like to hear it asked.

The world premiere of this new play is the result of a collaboration between Leeds Arts Centre and the stammering community, aiming to deepen understanding through the medium of theatre.

Tickets £12 / £9 Concession

Box Office 0113 376 0318

www.carriageworkstheatre.org.uk

Carriageworks Theatre, The Electric Press
Millennium Square, Leeds, LS2 3AD

www.leedsartscentre.org.uk

LEEDS ARTS CENTRE

Registered Charity 503872

